

Criteria Amsterdam Movement Sciences Outstanding Paper Award 2022

The Annual AMS Outstanding Paper Award will be presented to a RMA student or AMS member PhD candidate at the 5th Annual AMS Research Meeting to be held on March 10, 2022, for the most outstanding paper published in the past year. The award consists of a certificate and €1.000 to cover travel costs or attendance to an international scientific meeting of choice, or to cover other research related costs. The applicant must submit a PDF of the article in question.

Criteria:

- Outstanding paper in its field;
- First authorship (by applicant MA student or AMS member PhD candidate) of peer-reviewed article published (online journal, on paper, or alt. e-pub ahead of print) during the period January 1, 2021 – December 31, 2021¹;
- The candidate should be present at the meeting, either in person or online;
- The applicant must have used the correct AMS affiliation on the academic output as part of their own affiliation (i.e.: AMS must be linked to the applicant's name, not just to one of the co-authors);
- All authors must agree with the submission.

Review:

The papers will be judged by a selection of independent AMS members. The jury's decision is final.

Note: the jury will make their judgment based on the following principles:

- Scientific quality;
- The article's innovative and relevant contribution to Amsterdam Movement Sciences;
- Scientific and/or societal relevance.

Please upload your application via THIS LINK before the application deadline of February 1, 2022. The shortlisted candidates will be asked to give a short presentation of the paper at the meeting.

¹ The candidate must provide the article's exact volume, issue and page numbers OR in case of a publication in an online journal: the volume and issue number and article number. The paper can only be submitted once (print or online version).
