

Personal Microbiome Health

A Research Priority Area of the University of Amsterdam

Kickoff meeting Personal Microbiome Health (PMH)

Monday September 13, 2021 finally the live kickoff meeting for the Personal Microbiome Health (PMH) project will be held!

PMH is a novel Research Priority Area (RPA) of the University of Amsterdam, which aims to bring together all knowledge, expertise and interest in human microbiome research at the UvA. We want to apply this expertise in addressing complex scientific cases on microbiome health towards maintenance of general health.

The kickoff meeting is organized to inform co-workers in the different research groups on the plans and layout of the PMH project. It is aimed at showing an overview of existing and future possibilities for collaboration and participation. Please join!

The meeting will take place at the Amsterdam Art Center from 12:30-16:30. (<https://amsterdamartcenter.nl/contact/#>).

Several groups of the UvA faculties of Science, Medicine, Dentistry and Social and Behavioural Sciences are currently comprising the RPA. This invitation is sent to you since you are a member of one of these groups. For more information, please contact one/your member of the PMH-board (visit our website for details).

Registration is free but please send an email to rpa-pmh@acta.nl to confirm your presence.

More information on the PMH project can be found on the PMH website (<https://pmh-uva.nl>).
